

Thank you for your concern and understanding
My child has Smith-Magenis Syndrome SMS, a genetic condition.
One of the symptoms of SMS is behavioral outbursts. These can be triggered by almost nothing and escalate quickly to a severe level where the individual is out of control and VERY upset

Individuals with SMS often have self-injurious behavior that can include head banging, hand biting, and hitting. Also, they often lash out at the person with whom he/she feels safest.

I am kindly asking you to do your best to ignore us and stay calm while I help him/her. I may be curt in my responses to you, and hope you do not take offense, but this is a en emotional time.
